

Engaging Our Community in Clean Energy & Environmental Health

About the Program:

El Verde es Vida is designed to engage underserved Latino communities in creating a bilingual, community-led Clean Energy Adoption Plan.

Our goal is to empower residents to shape a healthier, more sustainable future through hands-on participation, education, and leadership opportunities.

Community Engagement Activities:

We will host virtual and in-person education workshops from January through April to make participation accessible for everyone.

Through this program, participants will gain a deeper understanding of environmental and public health concerns related to energy use in homes.

Why Get Involved?

- Learn about energy efficiency and clean energy options
- Influence decisions that impact your community's health and environment
- Become a Clean Energy Ambassador and lead local change
